D Answer the questions.

Every American family has at least (至少) one car. A small car can hold four people. A large car can hold six people but it is very crowded (拥挤的). So, when the family becomes large, they will buy a van. A van can hold seven people easily, so a large family can go for a holiday together. But usually, their sixth and seventh seats are used for other things, because a large family must carry some luggage (行李) when they travel.

Americans usually call vans motor homes, because when a family is travelling to mountains or the seaside, they can live in their van for a few days or weeks. That makes all the members of a big family enjoy a happier life when they are travelling together. That is why motor homes have become very popular. And in America, there are many parks for motor homes.

1. When will the American family buy a van?

2. Can a van hold seven people easily?

3. Which seats are usually used for some luggage in a van?

4. Americans usually call vans motor homes, don't they?

5. Why have vans become very popular?

E Read the passage and fill in the blanks with proper words.

Tom works as a p____1____ after he left school. One morning, when he stopped his bike outside a house and rang the bell, a window opened and a woman appeared (出现).

“What is it?” asked the woman.

“Here is a parcel (包裹) f____2____ Mrs Smith,” answered Tom.

“Is the parcel big or small?”

“It's big.”

“I see,” the woman thought for a moment, and then said, “Where is it from?”

Tom has a l____3____ at the back of the parcel and said, “It is from the M&M shop in London.”

Hearing this, the woman got very interested. “The M&M shop is a very expensive shop,” she said.

“What's in the parcel?”

Tom felt a little unhappy and said, “Madam, you've asked quite a lot of questions. Why not come here and o____4____ the parcel? Then you can get the answer y____5____.”

“How can I do that?” said the woman. “I'm not Mrs Smith. You've rung the wrong bell. Mrs Smith's house is over there.”
