Answer the questions.

Cars can bring us lots of fun and convenience (便利), but they could also bring us much danger. So we have to be very careful whether (无论) we drive them or get a ride in them.

It's always a good idea to put on your seat belt when you're in a car. Why? Think about this example: You put an egg on a skateboard and give it a push. If the skateboard hits (撞击) a stone or another skateboard hits it, it will stop, but the egg won't—it will fly through the air, fall down onto the ground and break. Again, think about what would happen if you tie (系) the egg to the skateboard. When the skateboard hits a stone or another skateboard hits it, the egg won't go flying—it will stay safely on the skateboard. Now you must know how important it is to put on your seat belt when you're in a car.

Air bags are also very important to the safety because sometimes a seat belt isn't enough, especially when the car goes really fast. So most cars now have air bags in front of and next to the seats. When the car hits something at a fast speed, its air bags will come out quickly—in less than one second—to keep the people inside safe.

1. Could cars bring us much danger?

2. What does the writer use as an example to show us how important it is to put on a seat belt in a car?

3. Where do most cars now have their air bags?

4. How long does it take the car's air bags to come out when it hits something at a fast speed?

5. What else do people do to keep themselves safe in a car?
